When veterans separate from their military life, they often find themselves alone. The structure and their network are suddenly gone. The CCF aims to reconnect veterans, support older veterans, and direct them to needed assistance.

Bruce Long
Director

The CCF is for Signals people: serving, veterans, families and those who value RA Sigs and seek to promote our interests. Through connection we can advance our people's causes and improve their way of life for the betterment of all.

Chris Rule
Director

One of the constant and recurring themes with veterans is that they feel a loss of connection with their 'tribe' when they transition from Service. CCF aims to provide that sense of connection and in doing so, provides a valuable resource to assist with caring for our mates.

Leanne Iseppi
Director

Certa Cito Foundation

“Dedicated to caring, connecting and commemorating our vibrant Signals Community and those who have served along side us in times of peace and war.”

The Royal Australian Corps of Signals has an illustrious history built on courage, innovation and mateship. In every conflict, Signallers have been there to provide lifesaving and battle-winning communication services providing direct support to the Australian Defence Force and our allies in our defence of Australia.

Help us deliver the recognition members of our Signals Community deserve

The Certa Cito Foundation is a registered Australian charity dedicated to caring, connecting and commemorating our vibrant Signals Community. We represent more than four thousand men and women who are currently serving and more than 107,000 veterans who have served as Signallers for a century.

Our Foundation also includes men and women from the Australian Defence Force who have served alongside us in times of peace and war. Our Signals Community includes our families and supporters whose lives have been touched by the Corps.

The Certa Cito Foundation supports our Signals Community when other systems cannot. Your support has the capacity to reach our Signallers and our families, from our children and partners through to our most junior soldiers and our most senior and elderly veteran Signallers.

Our Signals Community is a team of talented technical specialist who provide communications systems to support military operations. Our specialists have been developing and responding to emerging technology to support the defence of Australia for a century. Our families have supported us, and made sacrifices. We are fortunate they have been alongside us.

The Corps of Signals was pioneering communications long before the advent of the internet, providing reliable and innovative support in times of peace and conflict. This legacy continues to evolve. The future of the Royal Australian Corps of Signals lies at the cutting edge of technology, its future is set in the frontiers of cyber security, artificial intelligence and other evolving technologies, securing Australia in an increasingly complex world.

The Certa Cito Foundation, established to support the 75th anniversary of the Corps, continues the vision of our founders. Today, a new generation of supporters is on a mission to revitalise the Foundation and ensure we are ready to support our Signals Community as part of the Royal Australian Corps of Signals Centenary in 2025, and into the future. The Certa Cito Foundation will be the legacy of our Corps Centenary.

Join the Action

The Certa Cito Foundation exists to ensure the Australian Signals Community – current Signals personnel, veterans, their families and Australian Defence Force personnel who have served with our Signallers – are connected, supported and their service is never forgotten. We do this by:

Caring

- coordinating welfare support where there is a need, through our partnerships with leading service providers;
- smoothing the transition to civilian life by building networks and support; and
- fostering education and excellence through mentoring, scholarships and awards, particularly for our children and soldiers seeking to build a future beyond the military.

Connecting

- encouraging members of the Foundation to build their own local networks and creating opportunities for the Signals Community to come together through a program of meetings and events for current serving personnel, veterans and their families, and other valued members of the ADF and defence Community.

Commemorating

- generating support and funding to recognise, celebrate and remember the outstanding achievements of our Signals Community – making Australia aware and proud of their service to our nation.

It's a win-win - Signal your support today!

*“Bring Our Signals Community Together
- Your Sponsorship Makes It Possible!”*

Commemoration Projects

Sponsors can assist with supporting the Signals Community's contribution to key annual events such as ANZAC Day, Remembrance Day and the Royal Australian Corps of Signals Corps Week held annually in November.

The Corps occasionally commissions works to mark chapters in our Corps history. The Foundation seeks to support these long term projects, in particular:

RA Sigs Corps History

Your sponsorship will ensure that our current Corps History (Volumes 1 and 2) remains available for publication both on-line and in print. Your sponsorship will also ensure that the next chapters of our Corps History can be written and our heritage preserved.

RA Sigs Painting

The Royal Australian Corps of Signals marks key events and chapters of our history with artworks. These paintings are housed at the home of the Corps at the Defence Force School of Signals in Simpson Barracks.

Your sponsorship will ensure that our history is captured in artworks so current and future generations of Signallers can understand and appreciate their heritage.

Sponsor support also assists the Foundation to recognise our Signals Community through events, awards, certificates of recognition and other appropriate activities.
